

Foxhunting with horse, hound, and Virginia hospitality

The Rockbridge Hunt was founded in 1947, registered with the Masters of Foxhounds Association in 1960, and recognized in 1962. And it was essentially founded by a single individual, Warren Edward "Tex" Tilson at his farm, Broadview Ranch.

Located near Glasgow, Virginia, Rockbridge Hunt owns forty acres with several buildings -- the kennels, a large barn, a riding ring, a Huntsman's house, and the Tex Tilson Lodge. The main hunting territory includes the area between the kennels and the Tilson family's farm. This is a large area of many contiguous farms. The Northern part of the territory is centered around West Airlie, near Brownsburg.

Foxhunting with Rockbridge Hunt is an experience in good horsemanship, friendship, and enjoyment of the outdoors. The activity with horse and hound is an exciting seek-and-chase sport adhering to codes of conduct established by the Masters of Foxhounds Association.

We hunt on Wednesday afternoons, Saturdays, and occasional bye-days at various locations in Rockbridge County. A Virginia small game hunting license is required. Your mount requires a current negative Coggins test.

When possible, three fields (riding groups) will be organized and led by a field master for every hunt. The first field follows the staff and hounds over fences at a speed dictated by prevailing trail conditions. The second field will ride at a pace to generally keep up with the first field but forego jumping. A third or hill-topping group is enjoyed by riders desiring a quiet, peaceful pace without jumping.

Visitors may call the Master or Honorary Secretary for an invitation to hunt and directions to the meet. Each guest will pay a capping fee (hunting fee for nonmembers) of $50.00 per hunt. Visitors or guests are permitted to cap no more than three times in any hunting season. Pony Club members in good standing may hunt with permission of the Pony Club DC and when accompanied by an adult. Capping fee is waived for Rockbridge Hunt Pony Club members. Previous foxhunting experience is not required, but expect a polite exchange to ascertain suitability of your riding skills and fitness of your horse.
